ABOUT JOHN G. BLAKESLEY

John G. Blakesley was born in Goshen, Indiana on February 26, 1931 and was raised in Syracuse, Indiana. He attended New Paris High School as a freshman, winning math awards while attending school there. After moving to Ft. Wayne with his family, he graduated from Ft. Wayne Central High School in 1949, where he again won numerous awards in mathematics. John graduated from Yale University in 1954, majoring in economics and political science.

JOHN'S LEGACY

Cheryl Weaver, John's niece who served as executor of his estate: "My Uncle John valued education, and he worked very hard to pay his way through college. The education he received helped pave the way for him to enjoy the many things he was lucky to do in life. He wanted to make sure others had the same opportunity. Because of this, he asked me, his niece, to create two scholarship funds for the youth in the Elkhart County area. It is a great honor to personally be involved in my Uncle John's legacy."
